MORRAB LIBRARY, Morrab Gardens, PENZANCE, TR18 4DA

Set in a Victorian mansion with delightful gardens and large, comfortable rooms, the Morrab Library, established in 1818, is the only one in Cornwall and one of only 30 in the U. K. It is the 6th largest with more than 70,000 volumes and is strong in literature, history, biography, antiquities, topography and travel and religion plus it is a centre for Celtic studies.

*Some 2,750 of its books were printed before 1801, it has extensive runs of 18th and 19th century periodicals, among which are over a century of Cornish newspapers which start before 1850. There are 17th and 18th century Parliamentary Reports, 19th century Blue Books, Historic Manuscript Commission Reports and a collection of 3,000 Napoleonic memorabilia, which has been described as "the only great Napoleonic collection in the world"; whilst the Library's photographic archive has a computerized catalogue of over 10,000 prints and negatives of antiquities, places, people and events in West Cornwall.
It has recently acquired a further 15,000 transparencies of buildings, industrial archaeology and related interest.
